

DELISTING OF REPUBLIC BANK (GRENADA) LIMITED

Frequently Asked Questions

Q1: Why is the Company delisting?

The Company has chosen to do this to remove the regulatory administration and costs associated with being a public company. Additionally, the share price has remained unchanged at EC$45 for the past eight (8) years and there have been three (3) trades of the Company's shares from June, 2019 to June, 2023. In light of the infrequent trading of the shares and the ever-increasing regulatory regimen for public companies, delisting is the best course of action.

Q2: How will I be able to trade my shares if the Company delists?

Republic Bank (Grenada) Limited shareholders will no longer be able to trade their shares on the Eastern Caribbean Stock Exchange (ECSE) but will conduct trading, if desired, via private transactions governed by the terms and conditions agreed between buyer and seller. This may translate to easier sale and purchase of shares for shareholders.

Q3: Will my share price be affected?

The share price has remained relatively unchanged at EC$45 for the past eight (8) years and it is difficult to predict the impact delisting will have on the share price. In the absence of the ECSE, shareholders will be guided by share valuations and will also have greater flexibility in negotiating their share prices in private transactions.

Q4: Will I still receive dividends?

Yes, shareholders will still be entitled to receive declared dividends.

Q5: Will I still be able to attend the Company's General Meetings?

Yes, shareholders will still be able to attend annual general meetings of the Company.
